

St Helen's Livestream

St Helen's will be "livestreaming" services for viewing on the Internet, our first livestreamed service being the Maundy Thursday 7PM service.

The Good Friday 10AM and Easter 10AM services will be livestreamed. From then on, every Sunday 10AM service will be available on the St Helen's YouTube channel as a livestream and saved for later viewing in our video archives.

Please see the attached "Livestream Views for Communion" poster for details if you would prefer not to appear on camera during our 10AM service.

Sincerely,

Peter Humphries
Rector's Warden

and

Jeffrey McRae
People's Warden

St Helen's Anglican Church, Orléans

Camera views during Livestream

During the livestreaming of services, the main areas that will be captured on camera are the altar, the lectern, the Choir and Emmaus as well as part of the first and second rows from the front.

As communion begins, the camera will capture the shaded area in this diagram until the first two rows have received communion and then move to a view of the music group that is leading the music or a close-up view of the cross. If you do not want to be seen on camera, do not sit in the first two rows and, after receiving communion, simply return to your seat as indicated by the arrows, moving away from the group that is leading the music.
